MANAGING CARD ELEMENTS

USING VARIABLES & DATA SETS

The collage illustrates the workflow for managing card elements using variables and data sets in Photoshop. The images show the Photoshop interface with a data set applied, a Notepad window showing the data set content, a Photoshop 'Save As' dialog box, and a final Photoshop canvas showing the result.

Photoshop Interface (Left): The 'Apply Data Set' dialog box is open, showing the 'Data Set' dropdown menu with 'SIEL HOON' selected. The 'Variables' section shows the 'Name' as 'Artwork' and the 'Value' as 'C:\Users\Family\...\Tutorials\Artwork\Sciart\Sciart 01.png'. The 'Do Not Replace' option is selected.

Notepad Window (Middle): The 'Data Set.txt - Notepad' window shows the content of the data set. It includes a header row and several rows of data, each with a title, header, information, and icon.

Save As Dialog (Right): The 'Save As' dialog box is open, showing the 'Save as type' dropdown menu with 'PDF (*.pdf)' selected. The 'File name' field is empty, and the 'Save as type' field is set to 'PDF (*.pdf)'. The 'Save' button is highlighted.

Final Canvas (Bottom): The Photoshop canvas shows the final result of the workflow, displaying the card elements with the data set applied. The card elements include a title, header, information, and icon, all managed using variables and data sets.
